

AQW 11005/11-15
15 May 2012

Roy Beggs has asked:

To ask the Minister of Education, pursuant to AQW 706/11-15, to detail (i) the rate, per thousand, of 15 to 17 year old pupils who have less than 85 percent attendance, broken down by (a) council area; and (b) electoral ward; and (ii) what action is being taken to reduce the levels of absenteeism.

The Department collects pupil level attendance information which allows for in-depth analysis of patterns and levels of absence, by school and pupil characteristics, informing how current approaches to tackling poor attendance might be more effectively targeted.

The Education Welfare Service (EWS) receives referrals from schools when pupils' attendance is a cause for concern or when attendance drops below 85%. The EWS also supports schools through proactive work on attendance strategies and advising on attendance policy.

A key priority for the Department is to raise standards and tackle the long tail of underachievement and help every young person to achieve to their full potential. This will be achieved through a suite of complementary policies including the post 14 curriculum. The Entitlement Framework, the counterbalance to the reduced core curriculum at KS4, gives schools the flexibility to offer a pupil centric curriculum. In meeting their needs, interests and aspirations, pupils will be able to follow courses that they see as relevant to their future careers and that can help them succeed in life and work. Young people who see their time at school as relevant are more likely to stay engaged with education and more likely to succeed and do well. This in turn contributes to raising standards and impacting positively on the economy.

My Department recently commissioned a research study to identify strategies which are successful in improving attendance in schools serving deprived areas. The findings of the research will be published in May 2012 and my Department will be working with EWS to develop guidance for schools on promoting good attendance.

My Department regards non-attendance as a symptom of an underlying problem and additional programmes are in place to address the issues which are faced by vulnerable groups such as Traveller pupils, looked after children and school age mothers.

The table below details the rate per thousand of pupils for those pupils in post-primary schools aged 15-17 at 1 July 2010 (mainly Year 12, 13 and 14) with less than 85% attendance by District Council Area in 2010/11.

Notes on data

The data refers to all pupils aged 15 – 17 at 1 July 2010. These pupils will mainly be enrolled in Years 12, 13 and 14.

Pupil level information refers to the number of pupil enrolments rather than the number of pupils. A pupil can move schools during the year and will therefore have an attendance record at more than one school.

Pupil residence has been used for this analysis therefore the District Council and Ward refer to where the pupil lives as opposed to where the school is located.

Postcode was not available for 548 enrolments therefore they could not be included in this analysis. Of these, 81 had less than 85% attendance (1.4% of the total group with less than 85% attendance).

Some rates are based on a small number of pupils resident in a ward. The attendance of one pupil may significantly impact on that ward's rate/1,000.
