

Two reasons for objecting.

1. There are existing laws covering public order.

2. In Ireland, the right to march would, in principle, have been altered and the new law could be used to ban marching and freedom of assembly, so that a parade could not also pass these zones without breaking the law,