

I wish to inform you that I disagree that everyone in Northern Ireland has the same rights as the human unborn have no rights at all. Neither are the religious liberty rights given the same priority as some other rights. Just think of the Ashers case when they were not able to hold their religious beliefs regarding a same sex union. I personally would have a fear of trying to help a person dealing with same sex attraction who does not want to be that way as I would fear that I would be misconstrued in my actions and words.

I think the unborn should not be discriminated against because of their gender or disability As for human dignity this should be issued to everyone, the unborn, the born and the elderly I trust you will take account of my wishes. [REDACTED]

Sent from my iPad