

I want to throw in my strong support of the Severe Fetal Impairment Abortion (Amendment) Bill.

I am totally against all forms of abortion. I know an American family who resisted the abortion of their severely handicapped baby. How touching it was to see the love they lavished on their little one. How deprived they would have been not to have had that privilege. Their baby didn't live in fact for long but long enough to have experienced the love of the whole family. This family had the joy of knowing that one day they will be reunited with that little one - and then she will be perfect 😊

I have also witnessed the love of a former uni friend for her handicapped child and seen the joy that he brought to his parents.

May everything possible be done to prevent the killing of such babies.
