Dear Sir / Madam

As a survivor of domestic abuse and in particular coersive control, please feel free to contact me on why this bill is so important in Northern Ireland, especially with reference to the use of children to abuse, which can continue long after a divorce has been issued. This is definitely not what others, never affected, think it means.

Also the utter failure of the current system to even assist, never mind protect victims of these crimes.

I would really like to be involved in this matter, as it is so important to me and have talked at length with the previous minister for justice with regards to the bill being brought forward. Although it will not help me, I want it to be able to help others.

Kind Regards
