

Good afternoon,

I feel that with so many children being unplaced the review needs to look at rural Primary educational schools that could help place the unplaced children.

Most rural primary schools would be currently under pressure to remain open with low intake numbers.

This would be a much better way to help children with special educational needs in a calming environment thats already set up with teachers and support staff.

This in return will support these small rural schools to continue providing a first class educational setting.

I hope this is helpful

Kind regards
