My child attends an integrated secondary school which happens to be in a particularly loyalist area of Ballymena. Union flags are constantly being erected at the gates. Anytime the school removes them, they are met with paint bombs to the school buildings and threats from locals. This has been an issue for 20 years, as I attended the school myself back then and it was still happening. Local authorities seem to be powerless at preventing this as I know for a fact there have been many attempts at communication, even prosecution in the past. The intimidation of children continues.
